

The Protein Throne — Character Prompts (Nano Banana)

Sep 30, 2026 · @Oltaflock

How to use

Every prompt below is complete and ready to paste. Each one starts with the same universe style block, so all characters come out looking like they belong in one film. Generate in this order:

1. Hero pose (2:3) for each character. Regenerate until the face and personality feel right.
2. Lock it. Save the approved image. From now on, attach it as reference image #1 and start every prompt with "Keep this exact character identical."
3. Model sheet + expression sheet (16:9) using the templates at the end.
4. Scale lineup of all five together, so sizes stay the same in every episode.

For Makhana and Peanut, attach your current images as the reference and use the prompts as edit instructions. They're already close.

Universe style block (already inside every prompt; shown here for reference):

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal and a bold, readable silhouette. The comedy is in the acting: the face and pose instantly tell you who this character is. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Cast at a glance

Each character gets one clear comic type, one visual gag viewers will remember, and its own colour lane, so no two characters are ever confused in a fast cut.

Character	Comic type	Signature gag (the hook)	Colour lane
PROMUNCH Edamame	The unbothered legend	Tiny cute body, totally deadpan face. As a warrior he wins everything with one finger and never raises his voice	Roasted olive-green + PROMUNCH maroon & gold
Makhana	The snob	So light he floats a little when he gasps. Obsessed with his moustache (which he loses in Ep 3)	Cream + royal purple & gold
Peanut	The loud lovable show-off	Slaps his own belly for punctuation. His moustache twirls itself when he's proud	Peanut tan + maroon langot, red-check gamchha
Protein Chips	The influencer superhero	Huge PROTEIN crest on his chest, but he's mostly air inside: three chips rattling around	Chrome silver + hot magenta cape
Protein Bar	The joyless gym coach	Massive upper body on tiny legs. He skipped leg day, and it's never mentioned	Chocolate brown + charcoal & steel grey

PROMUNCH Edamame

Hook: the calmest character in the room is also the strongest. The joke is the contrast: everyone else is loud and dramatic, and he just doesn't care. Both forms share the same face, so viewers instantly know it's him.

Form 1: Tiny bean (Episode 1 entrance)

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal and a bold, readable silhouette. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a single tiny roasted edamame bean, small, round and adorable, with a smooth olive-green roasted surface, a slightly split seam and a light dusting of salt speckles. Tiny stubby arms and legs, no clothing except a thin maroon headband with a small gold trim tied at the back, its ends fluttering. The comedy: the body is cute, but the face is completely deadpan: heavy-lidded, unimpressed eyes, one eyebrow very slightly raised, a flat, tiny mouth. He looks like nothing in the world could surprise him. Pose: standing perfectly still with arms at his sides, one tiny foot resting on a fallen crumb, like a movie villain who has just arrived. A long dramatic shadow stretches behind him on the floor, shaped like a huge armoured warrior.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Swap: remove the warrior shadow for a clean character-sheet version.

Form 2: Warrior (Episodes 2-3)

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal and a bold, readable silhouette. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a tall, heroic warrior whose head and body are a roasted edamame bean: olive-green roasted skin with a subtle salt speckle and a faint seam down the head. A powerful V-shaped torso, broad shoulders, thick forearms, strong legs, standing roughly twice the height of the other snack characters. Same face as the tiny bean: heavy-lidded calm eyes, a tiny confident half-smile, one eyebrow slightly raised, completely relaxed. Armour in deep PROMUNCH maroon with polished gold trim: a sculpted chest plate with a gold bean-shaped emblem at the centre, shoulder pauldrons shaped like split edamame pods, gold arm bracers, an armoured maroon battle skirt with gold edging, maroon knee-high boots with gold bands, and a long maroon cape lined in gold flowing behind him. The same thin maroon headband from his tiny form. Pose: standing calmly with one hand behind his back, the other hand raising a single finger, while small crumbs and seasoning dust float around him as if pushed away by his power. Unbothered, witty, extremely strong.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Swap: change the pose to arms folded, glancing sideways at the camera with a smirk: the thumbnail pose.

Makhana

Hook: a royal snob who thinks he's too refined to be touched, and so light he drifts off the ground when he gasps. He loves his moustache more than anything, which sets up the Episode 3 payoff. Attach your current Makhana image as reference; this pushes the attitude further.

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal and a bold, readable silhouette. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a large, round puffed makhana (fox nut / lotus seed) with a light, airy cream surface full of tiny puffed pores and a few natural golden-brown husk patches. Thin, elegant arms and long delicate legs. He wears a royal purple velvet turban with gold embroidery, a pearl brooch and a tall cream feather; a sleeveless purple velvet vest with dense gold floral embroidery; a long string of pearls; a gold ring with a ruby on his little finger; and curled gold-and-purple jutti shoes. His prized feature is a thin, perfectly waxed moustache that curls up into two elegant spirals, with a tiny glint of shine on it. Expression: chin held very high, half-closed eyes looking down his nose at the viewer, one eyebrow arched, lips pursed in disapproval, as if someone just offered him a plastic plate. Pose: gliding forward on tiptoe, little finger raised, fluttering a small embroidered silk fan near his face with the other hand, his feet hovering just above the floor because he is that light, with a faint soft shadow beneath him.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Swap for Episode 3: same character, moustache gone, bare upper lip, eyes wide in horror, both hands touching the empty space where it used to be.

Peanut

Hook: the loud, lovable desi pehelwan who's all chest-thumping, but secretly a softie. That's why it's funny when he gets caught snacking on PROMUNCH in Episode 3. His thick moustache must look nothing like Makhana's thin curled one. Attach your current Peanut image as reference.

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal and a bold, readable silhouette. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a big, barrel-chested peanut in its shell, the classic two-lobed peanut shape with a deep waffle-textured tan shell, the lower lobe forming a proud round belly. The shell has a light sheen of wrestling oil and a dusting of reddish akhada mud on the feet and knees. Short, thick, muscular arms and legs. He wears a maroon wrestling langot, white cloth wrist wraps, and a red-and-white checked cotton gamchha towel over one shoulder. He has a huge, thick, bushy dark-brown handlebar moustache, big bushy eyebrows, and a wide gap-toothed grin. Expression: loud, proud and overconfident, eyes squinting with joy, like he has just challenged the whole village to a wrestling match. Pose: wide wrestler's stance, one hand slapping his own belly mid-laugh, the other hand twirling one end of his moustache, a small puff of dust rising from his feet.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Swap for Episode 3: hiding behind a pillar, cheeks stuffed, holding a PROMUNCH pouch (attach the pack render as reference image #2), caught mid-chew with guilty wide eyes.

Protein Chips

Hook: an influencer superhero who is all branding and no substance. He's always posing for a camera that isn't there. Inside the puffed-up pouch there's mostly air, with just three chips rattling around. That's the whole Episode 2 joke ("writing it is easy"). New colours move him away from the blue of any real chip packet.

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal and a bold, readable silhouette. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a superhero whose body is a generic snack pouch in shiny iridescent chrome-silver foil with crimped silver seals at the top and bottom. The pouch is over-inflated like a balloon, puffed out proudly, and slightly see-through near the bottom so you can spot just three small chips rattling around inside an otherwise empty pouch. On his chest is a huge, glossy superhero crest: a bold magenta shield with the single word "PROTEIN" in thick white block capital letters. A dramatic hot-magenta cape that billows in a wind that doesn't exist, a small black domino mask, white superhero gloves, and tall silver boots. A square jaw and a cleft chin drawn onto the foil. Expression: massively self-satisfied, eyebrows up, a dazzling smile, with a small star-shaped sparkle glinting off one tooth. Pose: the classic hero pose, fists on hips and chest pushed out, one foot on a tiny rock, looking up and off to the side as if the camera is on him.

Aspect ratio 2:3. The only text in the image is the word "PROTEIN" on his chest crest. No other text, words, logos, brand names, watermarks or lettering anywhere.

Swap for Episode 2: same pose, but deflating with a sad squeak, the crest crumpling and crumbs falling from the bottom seal.

Protein Bar

Hook: a joyless gym coach who treats snacking like a military drill. He has an enormous upper body on tiny stick legs, because he skipped leg day. Nobody ever mentions it, and that's what makes it funny. Grey-only colours fit his personality: colour is a distraction.

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal and a bold, readable silhouette. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a tall rectangular chocolate protein bar with a dense, chewy chocolate-brown texture studded with rolled oats and chopped nut chunks. A massively over-developed upper body: huge bulging biceps, broad shoulders, big chest muscles, and visible veins, all made of the same bar texture. Below the waist he has comically tiny, skinny stick legs in oversized chunky white high-top gym sneakers. His plain charcoal-black foil wrapper is peeled down and folded around his waist like gym shorts, with steel-grey stripes and no printing. A tight charcoal sweatband on his forehead, a thick black weightlifting belt, black wrist wraps, and a silver coach's whistle on a cord. In one hand he holds a plain steel-grey shaker bottle. Expression: dead serious, jaw clenched, one heavy eyebrow lowered, a stare that judges your life choices. Zero smile. Pose: a stiff bodybuilder front double-bicep flex, standing very straight, his tiny legs trembling slightly under the weight of his upper body.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, brand names, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Swap for Episode 2: squeezed into a tiny cube, the same stern face squished onto one side, tiny legs still sticking out underneath.

Supporting cast

These appear briefly, so each one needs to read in under two seconds. The flavour warriors take their colours from each pack, so they also help people learn the range.

The Crown

Hook: a bored, judgmental royal crown who has seen a thousand pretenders and is impressed by none.

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, centred. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: an ornate floating golden royal crown in an Indian palace style, with tall pointed arches, filigree and deep maroon ruby gems. Two of the large front rubies are its eyes, heavy-lidded and deeply unimpressed. A thin line in the gold band below them forms a small, sceptical mouth. It floats in mid-air above a soft golden glow, with tiny sparkles drifting off it, tilted slightly as if raising an eyebrow at the viewer.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

The Royal Judge

Hook: an elderly royal food critic who takes one bite very, very seriously.

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic food textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Exaggerated cartoon proportions with strong squash-and-stretch appeal. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: an old, wise, plump golden samosa with a crisp flaky pastry texture, wearing flowing royal-court judge robes in maroon and gold, a small round pair of spectacles perched on the tip of the samosa, and a long, wispy white beard. He holds a small golden gavel in one hand and a silver tasting spoon in the other. Expression: eyes closed, eyebrows raised, lips pursed, concentrating as seriously as a wine expert tasting something important. Pose: standing still, gavel raised, about to deliver a verdict.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Flavour warriors (Episode 3, Taste test)

Generate all three with the same pose so they line up side by side. Each one is an armoured edamame-bean warrior built like Edamame's warrior form, but slimmer, with its own element.

Himalayan Rock Salt — the zen one

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a cool key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a slim, graceful warrior whose head and body are a light, glossy green roasted edamame bean. Armour made of translucent pale-pink Himalayan rock-salt crystals and frosted ice, trimmed in cool teal and aqua, with small salt crystals floating around him like snowflakes and a faint cold mist at his feet. Expression: serene, eyes calmly half-closed, a tiny peaceful smile, like a monk who has never been in a hurry. Pose: standing balanced in a calm martial-arts stance, one open palm forward, a light snowfall of salt flakes drifting past.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Masala Mania — the hothead

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm orange key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a stocky, fiery warrior whose head and body are a reddish-orange edamame bean, heavily coated in masala spice. Armour of hammered copper and brass, trimmed in rust and gold, decorated with dried red chillies, star anise and cinnamon sticks. Small flames lick off his shoulders, and a puff of spicy red-orange smoke rises from his head as if he's too hot to handle. Expression: intense and fired-up, eyes blazing, grinning with gritted teeth. Pose: fists clenched, leaning forward, ready to charge, a swirl of red spice dust around him.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Indori Chatka — the street-smart swagger

Premium 3D animated feature-film character design, stylised and highly expressive, tactile realistic textures with soft subsurface scattering, cinematic studio lighting with a warm key light and soft rim light, seamless warm-grey studio background, full body, centred. Premium and polished, not childish, not creepy.

Character: a lively, cheeky warrior whose head and body are a golden, tangy masala-coated edamame bean. Colourful street-style armour in bright violet and purple, with chilli-red and lime-green accents, a small red-and-green chilli tucked behind one ear like a flower, a lemon-wedge shoulder guard, and a dusting of chaat masala and crunchy yellow sev sprinkled over him like confetti. Expression: playful and full of swagger, one eyebrow up, a big mischievous grin, winking. Pose: casual and confident, one hand holding a steel chaat plate like a shield, the other pointing at the viewer.

Aspect ratio 2:3. No text, words, logos, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Model sheets and lineup

Run these only after a hero image is approved. Attach it as reference image #1 every time.

Turnaround sheet (one per character)

Keep this exact character identical to the reference image: same face, proportions, colours, textures, costume and accessories. Create a professional 3D animation character model sheet on a seamless warm-grey background: four full-body views in a row at the same scale and height (front view, three-quarter view, side profile, back view), neutral standing pose, arms slightly away from the body, even studio lighting, no shadows overlapping. Aspect ratio 16:9. No text, labels, numbers, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Expression sheet (one per character)

Keep this exact character identical to the reference image. Create a character expression sheet on a seamless warm-grey background: a 3 x 2 grid of head-and-shoulders close-ups, same angle and lighting in each, showing six exaggerated cartoon expressions: smug, shocked, furious, laughing hard, defeated and sulking, scheming. Keep the face design, colours and accessories identical in every panel. Aspect ratio 16:9. No text, labels, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Scale lineup (attach all five approved hero images)

Keep all five characters exactly as they appear in the reference images. Place them standing side by side in a single row on a seamless warm-grey background, full body, feet on the same floor line, neutral poses, even studio lighting, showing their relative sizes: the PROMUNCH Edamame warrior in the centre, the tallest by far, about twice the height of the others; Protein Bar and Peanut next to him, roughly equal in height; Makhana slightly shorter and rounder; Protein Chips tall and thin. Each character keeps their own signature expression. Aspect ratio 16:9. No text, labels, watermarks or lettering anywhere in the image.

Flags before production

- Protein claim doesn't match the packs. The script says "up to 45 g protein per 100 g", but the approved pack badges are 46g (Himalayan Rock Salt) and 42g (Indori Chatka and Masala Mania). The Episode 3 on-screen line needs to change to match the label. Don't put any protein number inside the generated images.
- Brand colours. The PROMUNCH palette is maroon, cyan blue, sunny yellow and orange, not bright red. Edamame's armour uses maroon and gold to stay on-brand.
- Keep rivals generic. No logos, brand names or recognisable pack designs on Makhana, Peanut, Chips or Bar. Chips is the one to watch: that's why he moved from blue to chrome and magenta.
- PROMUNCH pack. Whenever the pouch appears (Peanut's Episode 3 scene, the coronation, the end frame), attach the real pack render as a reference. Don't let the model invent the label.